

Emission Inventory Users Need to Register For 2007

Starting in January 2007, companies that report 2006 air emissions or hazardous waste generation to the DNR will be required to use a new web-based system for entering their information. However, before they can use the new reporting system, companies will need to first register as a user on State of Wisconsin computer systems. To register, they need to do two things: (1) get a Web Access Management System (WAMS) Wisconsin User ID, and (2) complete the DNR Switchboard registration process.

How To Register

The registration process is available on the DNR Switchboard Registration page at: <http://dnr.wi.gov/environmentprotect/switchboard/sbregistration.html>. It includes a video tutorial with step-by-step instructions on the registration process. To go directly to the video tutorial, please click on:

<http://dnr.wi.gov/environmentprotect/switchboard/tutorial.html>

If you encounter registration problems, please call the Switchboard Registration Helpline at 608-267-3123 during normal business hours.